

Just Another Love Song

When people hear me singing of love's I've won and lost;
Hear the sadness in my voice,
The tears that count the cost;
They turn away in sorrow,
Not knowing what to say;
But it's just another love-song
Of a love that got away.

*It's just another love-song,
about a love that I once knew;
Just a moment in my day
When skies are not so blue.
Just another love-song,
No more than words and dreams;
Just another echo
Of the way life sometimes seems.*

When I'm alone and crying
In the silence of my heart,
It is not because I've lost you,
But because we're far apart.
On the ship of broken dreams
I've sailed across the sea;
Now this sad and lonesome love-song
Drifting home from you to me.

*It's just another love-song,
About a love that I once knew;
Just a moment in my day
When skies are not so blue.
Just another love-song,
No more than words and dreams;
Just another echo
Of the way life sometimes seems.*

A sad and lonely love-song
I sing when I am blue;
Soon my sun shines bright again,
When I'm once more with you.
See the look that's in your smile,
The love upon your face,
I know why my heart beats so fast,
For you make my pulses race.

*And so I sing this love-song,
About a love I know so true;
Ev'ry moment in my day
The skies are brilliant blue.*
